FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1866.

PATENT BEEF-CURING CO.

DEPARTER AT THE PROVENCE HOTEL.

Some days ago we mentioned the arrival of Professor Sloper and Mr. Eugene Paris, on the part of an eminent beef-curing firm of London, to experiment on a new method of preserving fresh beef in tins, with the object of supplying Great Britain during the present cattle-plague with the fine beef of these countries at present all but useless.

At 12 o'clock yesterday, pursuant to invitation from the agents, the following gentlemen assisted at a 'dejeuner a la fourchette' of preserved beef, at the Provencé Hotel: H. E. the Vice-President of the Republic, D. Marcos Paz, their Excellencies the Ministers Rawson, Elizalde, Costa, Gonzalez, Dominguez, Mr. Santa Maria, British Consul, Mr. Green, River Plate Bank, Mr. Robinson, R. M. S. P. Agent, Messrs. Zimmermann, Lamuz, Krabbe, Cranwell, Mulhall, Le Blanc, and Captain Smith, 'Uruguay.'

Mr. Paris delivered a preparatory discourse as to this new method of preserving beef in air-tight tins, shewing that the process adopted by Professor Sloper was exceedingly simple and eminently successful, as has been seen by large operations of the house in London with which he is connected. The great merit of this system is, that it detracts nothing from the nutritive qualities of the meat and presents it in the same exact condition as butcher's meat just killed. The Vice-president and Ministers took an evident interest in the subject, and, in answer to their questions, Mr. Paris entered into details relative to the cost, &c. of sending River Plate beef to Europe.

Messrs. Buch and Sempé then proceeded to open two 12lb. tins on the table, and the meat was turned out in splendid condition. It had been packed last October in England, and looked so fresh and juicy that we could hardly credit the fact of this roll of beef having suffered six months captivity, besides crossing the Line in a long sea-voyage. All present were perfectly amazed, and still more so as the beef proved perfectly odorless, as well as the blood which filled the dish, and preserved its natural color. There was nothing inside the tin but thin pieces of chip to prevent its contact with the beef. The dishes, with the beef in slices, and the blood, were passed from hand to hand, with marked signs of admiration: the fat was durable, the beef nicely streaked and of a rosy color, and M. Sempé was requested to employ his culinary skill in serving up a beef steak 'a la Anglaise.'

We must not omit to mention that one of the tins on being opened shewed some flaw in the soldering, for the top of the meat was slightly tainted, and this is one of the difficulties inseparable from this method of preserving beef. Professor Sloper stated that, although he employs the utmost care and has first rate workmen in London, there is invariably an average loss of 2 to 2½ per cent. from this leakage of tins, for the smallest pinhole proves fatal. The expense of packing is nearly a penny per pound, and the beef must fetch 4 pence per pound to leave a remunerative profit to the Co. The great problem of course is, whether River Plate beef [which is grass-fed] will turn out as well in England as this stall-fed English beef here, but on this point Messrs. Sloper and Paris are most sanguine, and the Professor told the Vice-President that he hoped to have the pleasure, on his return to London, to give a dinner at the Guildhall, of River Plate beef.

And now the rich savory meat of an English beef-steak steals into our thoughts, bringing back thoughts of home, the youthful arcade, and the cheerful breakfast-table, such as the only faintly represented in South America. Here comes M. Sempé bearing this souvenir of Old England in his hands, and soon the plates are handed round to taste the vigor-giving meat. What a pity we had all breakfasted! We should have made a hearty 'dejeuner a la fourchette' if we had come fasting. Everyone tasted the beef-steak, and the Ministers expressed an enhanced admiration for Great Britain seeing that the country boasted such prize beef.

Messrs. Sloper and Paris were in high spirits; the Vice-President never looked so happy in his life; Dr. Rawson entered into a long conversation with the Professor; Sor Elizalde forgot the Foreign Department, to think only of the foreign beef; Sor Gonzalez went through some mental calculation as to the great increase of export-duties he might expect from it; Sor Costa thought of adding a Model-farm to the Education department, for raising such meat; Sor Dominguez resolved on adding a chapter to his Argentine History; and the other gentlemen (bankers, merchants, &c.) saw in this new industry a splendid field for trade that would probably prove more valuable to the country than gold-fields of Australia richness.

The company looked as serious as judges, and nothing in the way of 'chaffing' was attempted, although the subject might have afforded room for many a joke or pun. It was evidently a matter of business, and after the tasting of meat had been satisfactorily gone through, the company warmly congratulated Professor Sloper and Mr. Paris, and then broke up, at 1 p.m.

We understand Messrs. Sloper and Paris proceed at once to Mr. Fair's estancia of Monte Grande, to commence operations, where there is a good number of cattle most suited for the purpose. They will, generally, have to move about from one place to another, killing fat cattle on their 'querencia,' as driving them always reduces the quality of the meat. The meat, when packed in tins, will be shipped through the house of Messrs. Zimmermann, Fairs & Co., to London, and the agents intend also preserving a quantity of mutton, which can be obtained much easier than horned cattle, and will be found to have equal demand in England. They calculate paying $250 mpc (£2 sterling) for fat oxen, but this is a high figure, and they will be able to get them much cheaper. Their operations will extend to the banks of the Uruguay, and as soon as the Company is in 'full blast' we may expect a very large business, to meet the great demand for meat in England.

The 'estancieros' of the River Plate will soon find themselves 'millionaires,' for the beef and mutton of the country is really good, and it is only in the city we eat bad meat, owing to the tired condition of the animals, the police taking no pains whatever to have them properly rested before killing. Beef in Mercedes or Tandil is more like English than Buenos Ayrean meat, and Captain Smith assures us that he took home last voyage two oxen from Montevideo which excited surprise in Liverpool, the animals looking very fine and weighing nearly 5 cwt. each.

It remains for us to congratulate Messrs. Sloper and Paris on this very successful experiment, and if, as we trust, Professor Sloper succeeds in sending home River Plate beef on his principle similar to that we tasted yesterday, he will have conferred a great boon on humanity than if he had succeeded in squaring the circle or discovering the North-West passage.

FIVE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE IRON-CLAD NELSON.

IMPEENDING WAR BETWEEN AUSTRIA AND PRUSSIA.

RUSSIA AND THE DANUBIAN PRINCIPALITIES.

DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT ABOUT FETTERING.

The iron clad Bellona, built for the Brazilian Government, arrived in Rio on the 28th ult., with dates from London and Liverpool to February 28th. The illness of H.M. Queen Victoria is contradicted.

Mr. Watkin has brought before Parliament the question of Fettering in the States. The Chancellor of the Exchequer seemed to avoid the question: both parties exonerated President Johnson; but the feeling in the house is very strong. Judge Keogh's speech on the bench was quoted. The Government is now called to account for its inactivity. The 'Times' of Feb. 28 excuses the American Government, stating that England, in allowing the Garibaldian Brigade to depart, has set the example. The 'Times' has no faith in the American Government. The Chancellor of the Exchequer has

The cattle plague in England still rages: 13,000 animals per week are said to be dying of it.

The Queen is at Windsor in the best of health. Colonel Phipps is dead: he was an intimate friend of the lamented Prince Albert since 1846.

Prince Leopold has been ordered to Egypt for his health.

Several regiments have been shipped from Portsmouth to Dublin.

Small-pox, it was said, had broken out in sheep, principally in Northamptonshire. All imported sheep to be killed.

The steamer Cordova from Buenos Ayres arrived on 24th Feb.

Lord Lifford had brought into the House of Lords an important question respecting Ireland.

In Ireland the arrests still continue. Captain Condon, an American officer, has been arrested, with others, at Harold's Cross. At Cork, five respectable parties have been taken, one a Mr. Grigg, with no less than £400 in American gold. A number of soldiers were arrested at Pillsworth public-house. Twelve men have been taken at Clonmel, and sent on to Dublin. Several more counties have been proclaimed, and a Fenian proclamation, printed in America, is circulating in Meath, it winds up with "God preserve Stephens." In Londonderry and other northern towns, several parties (said to be Orangemen) have been arrested, charged as Fenians. In Belfast the arrests are numerous.

Stocks ruled down in London; interest same rate; tallow, 48s.

The Liverpool wool market shows some improvement owing to money being easier.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has had an interview with the Irish members about the land question, which has led to a satisfactory result. Napoleon has determined to cut up the garden of the Luxemburg.

The House of Lords after two discussions on the cattle-plague sent the proposed bill before a special committee.

In the French Chamber of Deputies a motion was presented by several friends of the Government, demanding an extension of political rights.

Fears of a war between Austria and Prussia are much increased, and the Berlin correspondent of the 'Morning Herald' says that the Prussian Government is preparing to have recourse to the 'ultima ratio regum.'

The news is confirmed that the Count of Flanders has refused the throne of the Danubian Principalities. It is said that France, Russia and Austria, at the invitation of the Sublime Porte, are going to send delegates to Constantinople to hold a conference on the affairs of the Principalities, but, strange to say, Great Britain does not seem to have any part in it. Meantime the Provisional Government of Servia is making active preparations to defend Bucharest and the frontier. A Russian army is in observation close to the River Pruth, and General Kotzebue is expected from Odessa to take the command. It is said that several emissaries from Servia and Roumania, in complicity with the Greek clergy, are trying to stir up a revolution among the Christians in Turkey, against the government of the Sultan Abdul Azziz.

The Grand-Duke Nicholas of Russia arrived at Vienna, incognito, en route for Venice.

The Lower Chamber in Hungary voted a reply to the vote of thanks about to be presented to the Emperor of Austria.

Prince Carignano has accepted the Presidency of the Association for the payment of the national debt of Italy by voluntary contribution. The Minister of Public Works has laid before the Chambers at Florence a bill for the formation and extension of several railway-lines.

Latest advices from Dublin state that the city-prisons are unable to hold all the parties arrested on suspicion, since the suspension of Habeas Corpus, and numbers are now detained in the Castle. The Government has seized all the telegraph offices: the wires have been cut in many places. An escort of troops conveying Fenian prisoners was fired on in the streets of Dublin. A number of men of military aspect arrived by night-train from Cork, and embarked for Liverpool, which is now the focus of the Fenian organization.

IMPORTANT FROM U. STATES.

DATES TO FEB. 28th.

PRES. JOHNSON VETOES THE FREEDMEN BILL.

The New York mail-steamer South America arrived at Rio on the 28th ult. with dates to Feb. 28th.

On the 12th Feb. a solemn ceremony in commemoration of Pres. Lincoln took place in the Chamber of Deputies, at which Pres. Johnson, the members of Government, corps diplomatique, both houses of Congress, and the chief civil and military authorities assisted. Mr. Bancroft, the eminent historian, pronounced the funeral eulogium of the martyr-president.

President Johnson put his veto to the Freedmen bill which had passed both Chambers of Congress. In the Council of State held previous to such veto, all the ministers were of accord with the President, except Messrs. Stanton, Horlan and Speed, and it was thought these gentlemen would hand in their resignation.

The President's veto caused excitement in both Houses of Congress, to which the President sent a special Message explaining his objections to the bill. The veto, however, was well received in most of the States. A new bill is being prepared relative to the negroes. The representatives from Arkansas presented themselves, and a warm discussion ensued in the Chamber, which resulted in their being denied admission. Some new amendments to the Constitution are now before Congress.

The Spanish frigate Carmen, 40 guns, and the corvette Isabella Católica 16, arrived at New York.

MEXICO.

The financial difficulties of the new empire are increasing. There has been no fighting lately. General Bazaine is at San Luis Potosi. Mr. Langlois is named Minister of Finance. Count Elio arrived at Havana, from Mexico, en route for Belgium, bearing a special mission from the Empress to her brother King Leopold. On Feb. 18th General Mendy captured a caravan with 1,000 sumpter-mules and booty worth 650,000. Ex-president Juarez and his followers are still at El Paso, and the rebels are preparing an attack upon Chihuahua.

BRASIL.

Great preparations are going on at Rio for the baptism of the young Prince, son of the Duke of Saxa.

A river has overflowed its banks at Bahia, and caused much damage.

THE FOREIGN RACES MONTEVIDEO.

On Tuesday the long-talked-of foreign races came off at Montevideo; for weeks and even months previously the committee was indefatigable in its efforts, every preparation had been made to secure success. The Government declared the day a holiday, the Custom-House and Banks were closed by order of law, most of the houses of business were shut at 9 o'clock a.m. On Tuesday morning the city of Montevideo wore a Sunday aspect. The weather however looked threatening, the cloud capped Cerro, seemed to have been unmoved from its fastenings, and brought 2,000 yards nearer to the city, an infallible sign of a storm. It required neither the prescience of a Lettson nor the aid of his telescope to read the Heavens; and yet, strange to say, although Montevideo has been reduced to the last straits by an unexampled drought, the albiges dry, and even the richest families pinched for the want of one of the most necessary of elements, such was the general desire to go to the races, and join in the sport, that fervent prayers were uttered for the weather to keep up, and the rain to hold off. At 9.30 a.m. precisely, we took our seat on the top of the Omnibus which Mr. Hoffmann had chartered to convey the committee: the inside seats were so crowded that we preferred the airy and easy seat alongside the driver: the passengers inside numbered 14, total aggregate weight say 115 ar., about cargo for a bullock cart. The horses, 4 in number, were in miserable condition, the diligence, a creaky ambulance something inferior to the Barraca coaches which ply before 'Standard' Hall, but as we occupied an elevated position no accident could well occur in which agility on our part might not rescue us, so without the slightest misgivings we aided the driver to move the horses. Just as we started from the club-door the driver in cracking his long whip nearly drove the thong of it through the windows of the River Plate bank—at last we got well going, and rumbling along the well paved streets, which reflect such credit on the Montevidean Municipality, we came to the 'Aguada.' The driver was precisely the reverse of a Dublin Jarvey,—he seemed to have been up all night, and all our effort to get the fellow into a loquacious humor failed; the horses appeared to be of the same drowsy stamp, and notwithstanding the continued shouts of Mr. McColl, and Mr. Baverstock to go on a little faster all proved useless. At last perceiving that every now and then the driver was nodding over his reins, we persuaded him to allow us to drive.—Then it was we began to move along at proper speed: some of the committee inside complained of the jolts but, as it was the first time we ever had the honor of driving a racing committee in South America, we determined to make the horses feel the whip and the passengers the ruts.—The road was crowded with gigs, and taxicabs, coaches of every description, but we passed everything: we pulled up at Mr. Croker's and took that gentleman inside and his two racing saddles outside. On we dashed, along the newly macadamized road of the 'Figurita.' Happily it is no easy job to upset a diligence, but at some parts of the road the ravines and holes were really frightful. Jack Hinton, the Guardsman, never ran half such break, neck risks as our friends the committee-men inside, but luckily they knew nothing of it until the danger was passed.

"Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise."

At last we came to a large gap in the mountain, which stretched across the road and knowing the absolute impossibility of attempting to pass this without smashing the coach &c., we suggested that the committee had better get out and walk which they readily did. This was the last dangerous part of the road; all now was smooth sailing, and we drove up at last to the race course just as it commenced to rain down in torrents. Notwithstanding that we arrived early, there were many carriages on the ground before us, and on the grand stand we noticed scores of elegantly dressed ladies—but the lightning was terrific, it ran along the ground before us, the peals of thunder louder than even the cannonading at Itapiru, and the rain, something like at the time of Noah. We all rushed promiscuously into the weighing house where we patiently waited for about an hour and a half, until the storm ceased. During all the rain, the people kept arriving, and though the aspect of the weather was such, and the state of the ground so wet, that at first it was determined to postpone the races until the following day; still the crowd of visitors on the course was so great, and the weather having cleared up, it was resolved to follow the English plan, and go on with the races. At 12 o'clock the sun made its appearance, and the course being on the slope of a hill, it was argued that in less than an hour it would be sufficiently dry, to run. We confess that as we strolled about the stand-house, betting circle, carriage square, and tents and marquees department, we were struck with the great order and regularity which prevailed. Some mounted police with short carbines were there, as also the Chief of Police on a horse caparisoned in silver, but their services were not required, not a single row or disturbance having occurred during the whole day.

Carriage after carriage came rolling up, and at precisely ten minutes to one o'clock the bell rang for the first race. We noticed in the judges' stand Mr. Tomkinson, Jr.; Mr. Enjareo, Sr. Blas Vidal, Mr. Duguid, Mr. Charles, Mr. Noville, Mr. Chapman and Mr. James Bell. Messrs. Lafone's, Jrs., were in charge of the course, and were busily occupied all day keeping the course clear of dogs and gauchos. We noticed General Caraballo and Mr. Croker busily occupied at the weighing room, whilst Mr. Mc Coll, and Mr. R. Wilson were everywhere.

FIRST RACE.

The Solis stakes value 250 Nat. Dol. for horses never run before, once round.

There were three horses entered for this race, but only two ran, Avestruz having been withdrawn. 'Pensamiento,' a sprightly looking malacara belonging to Mr. Croker, was the favorite in the betting-ring amongst the Englishmen, but 'Alabama' a wiry tordillo, owned by Sr. Aguiar was backed by the natives. The horses started well, but Pensamiento soon took the lead, and kept it half a way round; at the turn in the course Alabama pulled up wonderfully, and shot slightly ahead: the roar of the betters on the stand-house was now terrific, and the horses came in so closely together that it was almost impossible to judge which was the winner; we however believe Alabama gained by a neck, but the judges decided that it was no race, as there was talk about a 'pechada,' and at the scales there was also some faua pas. The wagers which were very heavy were of course all drawn. The race was run in 2 minutes 34 seconds.

SECOND RACE.

The grave disputes which occurred about the first race caused great delay, and after waiting about an hour the second race was announced. We heard that Mr. Croker was so dissatisfied that he withdrew his horse, which was much to be regretted as this gentleman had been the soul of the whole meeting.

This race was for the Oriental Plate value 150 nat. dol., 1½ round: only three horses ran, they came in as follows:

1. Tabano—Rosillo, owned by Gen. Caraballo.

2. Abanico—Doradillo.

3. Vencedor—Tordillo.

Abanico was the favorite horse, and the betting was heavy against the others; Tabano took the lead at starting and kept ahead all the way round; Abanico was pushed hard, but came in second; Vencedor was nowhere. This was decidedly the best race of the day. Some of the Narcissus officers won large sums, having backed Tabano.

THIRD RACE.

Half round stakes.

Four horses were entered for this race, but only 3 ran, Mr. Cranwell having withdrawn 'Atlas de Todo,' owing to his being dead lame. The start was good, Yatai taking the lead, followed closely by Pampero; at a turn in the course Pampero stumbled, and down came horse and jockey; Gato Lombardo, a heavy looking brute, tried to keep up, but Yatai held his own and won easily. During this race it was drizzling rain, and some of the Narcissus officers dressed as nigger minstrels diverted the attention of the crowd by their inimitable singing, &c.

FOURTH RACE.

Government Prize, 300 Nat. Dollars. This race attracted great attention, as it was three rounds, something over three miles. There was great betting. Adios, Mr. Tomkinson's horse, being the favorite, but the distance was too great and the course too heavy. Only three horses ran: they came in as follows:—

1. Veremos—Saino Oscuro.
2. Esperanza—Picazo.
3. Adios—Saino.

FIFTH RACE.

The Ladies' Cup. Once and a-half round.

Six horses were entered for this race, but only four ran. Apetate el Gorro was the favorite horse, and heavy bets were taken on him. When the horses started he took the lead, and kept ahead half-way round, but Casualidad pulled out when coming in, and, to the surprise of many, distanced the favorite. The horses came in as follows:—

1. Casualidad, owned by Sr. Fernandez.
2. Apetate el Gorro—Crocker.
3. Volveremos—Tomkinson.
4. Loro—Barnet.

It was now late, and drizzling rain: as there were no gas-lamps on the course, the Helter-Skelter Stakes could not be run for. The real helter-skelter race was for Montevideo, as the road was not to say the best, and the rain in the day had flooded the rivulets. The day's sport, however, could not have been better, and we congratulate the foreigners of Montevideo on the great success which attended their efforts to revive the English races in this city. Notwithstanding the rain in the early part of the day, the Stand house was crowded with ladies, and the carriages were almost as numerous as at the last meeting at Belgrano. Some of the Narcissus men erected an 'Aunt Sally' behind a bullock cart, and it was great sport to see the efforts of the natives to hit her. But the grand feature of attraction was the gang of nigger-minstrels, composed of officers of the same ship. Christie's Minstrels could not be more successful: their singing and acting was inimitable. The captivated audience readily rained coppers into the hats of the niggers. The total amount they collected, we understand, was 16 National dollars, which was handed over to the British Hospital.

On Wednesday the races were continued. A full account of the day's sport will appear in our next.

LATEST FROM MONTEVIDEO.

Wednesday, April 4, 4 p.m. The weather quite cool to day. Business resumed, but as the races are going on outside very little doing. The non-arrival of the Portefa supposed to be caused by the storm yesterday evening. To-day the weather so rough that it was with difficulty the passengers of the 'Rio de la Plata' could get ashore.

The Memnon has brought no news of importance, but a heavy cargo and several intending sheep-farmers.

The news of the battle of Itapira has caused a most profound sensation; some bulletins are in circulation here, printed by the 'America,' which gives an altogether different version of the matter. The general opinion is, that as the fleet effected so little and suffered so much at so insignificant a place as Itapira, very it will be along day before it goes near Humaitá.

The Susquehanna leaves for the States, and the American admiral's new flag-ship, the Brooklyn, will soon leave for Buenos Ayres.

It is rumoured that Admiral Elliott is about to send up a gunboat to Corrientes.

The rain on Tuesday has half-filled the algarbes, and been of the greatest possible benefit to the quintas. Owing to the great scarcity of water most of the buildings going on had been stopped, but now they have been resumed. The new portion of the Hotel Oriental is now all but finished, it will be by far the finest hotel in the Plata. The rooms are elegantly furnished, and just as fast as they are finished they are occupied.

The streets of Montevideo are literally crowded with naval officers: never before did we see so many as at present, they cause a great stir in trade as they spend their money liberally.

The Paraguayan prisoners are all now drilled as soldiers: they marched down Calle 25 de Mayo on Sunday, and looked well, all new uniforms and shining muskets.

The Shenandoah coming down is not the old rebel vessel: she is a U. S. steamer, built in New York, and bound for the East Indies.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The event of the day, yesterday, was the 'dejeuner' at the Hotel de Province, an account of which will be found in another column. We regretted not to see any of our colleagues present.

We have very important news from Europe and the United States: things look rather out of joint in the Old World, from the Grant's Causeway to the Danube.

A fatal accident occurred on the Great Southern Railway on Monday. At the terminus, one of the porters, a Basque, recently employed, in trying to cross the line, was caught by the train, and so fearfully mangled that he survived only four hours after being taken to hospital.

Captain Smith takes home a great number of Spanish refugees, in the Uruguay: these poor fellows escaped from Peru and Chile.

Our talented friend, D. Hector Varela, we regret to say, still suffers from injuries received in the eye during Carnival, and proceeds by next Liverpool steamer to Rio, to place himself under a distinguished oculist. We hope he will soon be recovered.

Our brother-editor sends us a full account of the Races at Montevideo: they seem to have been a much grander affair than ours at Belgrano.

We have received the programme of a grand Concert to be given at the Coliseum next Monday for the Sanitary and Wounded relief societies. The names of Mme. Krutisch and Mr. Bassmeyer, who will be assisted by several talented amateurs, are a guarantee of its success.

M. Palliere's auction to-day will be the rendezvous of all lovers of art. The paintings to be sold (see advertisement) comprise a variety of subjects by his masterly crayon, and we advise our friends to make sure of one. The auction will be at 87 Cangallo, at 11 o'clock sharp: there will be time afterwards to attend the Bolsa.

A musical soirée takes place to-night at the American church: these meetings are, happily, becoming very popular.

The Emigration returns for the quarter ending March 31st show that 2,540 Europeans arrived, of whom 311 received shelter at the Asilo.

We regret to learn that M. Legout, editor of the French paper, was conveyed to prison yesterday, having refused to pay the fine, $10,000.

Owing to press of matter we are unable to take up to day the questions about the forged specie-certificates, and the protest of the merchants against the Custom-house valuation-tariff.

LA REVISTA DE BUENOS AIRES.

The present number of this interesting publication contains nine well-selected articles from which we can gladly wish to translate some extracts if our space permitted.

Dr. Carranza contributes Historical notes on Paraguay from an unpublished MS. by an old lawyer of Asuncion, named Mariano Antonio Molas, who was immured in a dungeon for years by the tyrant Francia. Molas was born in 1787, and came to Buenos Ayres to study law under Dr. Castelli. In the Paraguayan Congress of 1811 he advocated the union of that country with Buenos Ayres, and was a strenuous opponent of the tax on yerba. He died in poverty, A. D. 1844, and his MS. gives some valuable geographical information: he calculated the population of Paraguay in his time as 512,000, or a fourth of what Du Gues (1861) lays down.

D. Vicente Fidel Lopez continues his philological studies, taking in the roots and derivatives of several Eastern tongues.

Historical records, by D. Damian Hudson, have reference to the campaigns of Belgrano, the Cuyo Provinces, the defeat of Cancha Rayada [1818], and the return of San Martin after the victory of Maypú; we read that Gen. San Martin was presented to the Congress at Buenos Ayres, amid a nation's gratitude and applause, and a bronze tablet was ordered to be put up in every town and city, with the inscription "The grateful nation, to the General of the victorious army of Chacabuco and Maypú." A 'cordon' of gold was voted to each commanding officer, and of silver to the subalterns. The grade of Brigadier was conferred on San Martin but he always refused it: he subsequently died in exile.

Padre Cattaneo's letters, A.D. 1738, continue to throw light on the condition of these countries in the last century. He mentions, on his arrival, being nearly driven on the English Bank by a pampero, and says that the bank took its name from an English vessel lost there with a cargo of contraband silver from Peru. He says they caught abundance of fish off Lobos Island. In those days Colonia was a place of great importance with a fortification on San Gabriel Island in front, while Montevideo—began in 1725—had only four brick-houses and sixty huts made of ox-hides to shelter the families arriving from the Canary Islands, but 2,000 Indians of Misiones were occupied in building forts and houses. He complains of having had to anchor nine miles off from Buenos Ayres, and says the river is so wide that Colonia is never visible.

Don José Elias contributes an account of the administration of the Marquis Sobremonte as Governor of Cordoba from 1783 to 1788, by which it appears he was a most active and upright magistrate.

The preface of a statistical sketch of the Cuyo Provinces (Mendoza, San Luis, and San Juan) agreeably written by D. Juan Llerena, promises a series of entertaining articles which this gentleman has written for the 'Revista' dated March 1866.

Doña Fernandez de Cordoba is the continuation of a historical romance by Dr. Quesada; the scene is laid in Potosí, in the last century, the style graceful and flowing, the plot well-developed, and the story worth reading.

A profound study on Argentine Jurisprudence, as modelling the Federal Court after that of the United States, is written by D. Manuel Garcia, actual Secretary of Legation at Paris.

The present volume winds up with a well-deserved compliment by Dr. Quesada to our talented friend D. José Manuel Estrada junr. for his new course of Lectures on Argentine History, which we understand are being reproduced in pamphlet-form.

We again congratulate the editors and contributors of the 'Revista' on the high and intellectual tone which their publication continues to maintain, and trust that the public will increase their protection of these valuable annals of Argentine literature and history.

BANKING and the MONEY MARKET.

Vox populi. There is a prevalent opinion that there exists a party in this country who would strenuously oppose an arrangement such as that clamored for by the general public and indicated in the course of these letters: that the preoccupation of such party in favor of the power of the Government and legislature to emit unrepresented paper money, regardless of its too manifest evils, and ruinous consequences on the material interests of the country, arises from their believing that the 'capacity' to emit provides them with the means of entering into and carrying on war—itself a great evil which attaches to South American Republics in general. Any such party, supposing it to exist, would be an incalculable misfortune to the country, could it prevail to impede essential reform, and History would rate it as a blot on her page.

In reference to this point of view, it is necessary to consider well the bearings of my proposal. Does it involve the absolute condition of a compromise on the part of the Government and Legislature, to renounce for ever the power to emit, in case of emergency—an emergency recognized by the Legislature? Certainly it does not, as far as I have put it forward, and if it did pretend to it, and were the Government and legislature to decree accordingly, no permanent 'force' would exist in such decree, as we cannot dominate the future in matters of 'fuerza mayor' by any direct act or decree. A further emission of unrepresented paper would be an evil, which should be a consequence only of an other evil—'fuerza mayor.'

My project does not propose directly to control either of these evils, but to render them more remote, through the higher 'bien estar' of the country and governing power: this is indicated in my letter of 24th March ('Standard' 27th). By augmenting the sources of wealth in the country, we augment the power of the Government, financially and politically. The 'existing' paper currency is a source of evil to the country at large, as not being representative, and a source of weakness to the Government, a curtailer of its credit, from the same cause. My proposition is to fix the value of this existing currency and render it convertible (other means are indicated and are practicable), and this would, as shown, at once raise the credit of the Government—it would be free—it would have substantially paid its debts—with clean hands, therefore, it could come into the market and obtain what was needed, for any extraordinary occasion which might arise, in a form which would not be grievously injurious to the country, its commerce and industries.

The danger and occasion, as I said in the same letter, of an emission, would be infinitely further removed, because the resources at the command of the Government would be proportionately greater; but suppose an occasion presented itself for an emission, say for example of 50 millions or more, such emission would be independent, it would have no effect on the 300 millions, to which a fixed value was given under an interchange of guarantees; and the new 50 million emission would stand in its turn on its own merits, it would not be depreciated by the existence of the 300 millions in circulation, in so much as these would have a fixed and guaranteed value. The 50 millions, therefore, in relation to the whole convertible circulating medium, i.e. the fixed currency and the representative issue of the various banks based on their effective specie capitals, would be as a 'drop in the bucket,' and would become current with little or no fluctuation, according to the securities presented, or the conditions of amortisation decreed.

From this point of view I considered it superfluous to seek for any compromise for the Government and legislature in respect of any possible future emission. The new power created, and the interests of the country represented in the legislature, would be elements which would influence its deliberations and determinations, and it is within its attributes to grant the 'presupuesto' and determine the ways and means.

There was much more animation to-day on the Bolsa, merchants gave their orders with greater freedom in the wool market. The increased activity was very noticeable, the demand having had the effect of raising the price with every appearance of being sustained. The very evident business in the market for both paper money and gold will greatly assist business in this respect, and the baroque, who had begun to complain, will soon have their hands full.
Paper money offered freely in the market at 11. The Provincial Bank continues to discount at 14.
Several large arrivals of wheat from the river have caused a slight decline, but as the monthly consumption is so large, say 40,000 fanegas, it is expected prices will soon rally: last price, 100 to 175 mts.
In National Bonds nothing done; not quite so many sellers.
The Commission of the Colicuz are to have a meeting this afternoon.
In Exchange several first-class bills passed at 41 1/2 taken, but with little animation. The London Bank, we understand, will draw but a very low figure.

On Tuesday, the 3rd instant, the wife of Francis C. Ford, Esq., of the Britannia, lost her Charge d'Affaires of a son.

SAVINGS BANK.
BANK MAUO AND CO.
No. 103 Calle de Cangallo,
BUENOS AIRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now generally felt and appreciated in the great commerce of the River Plate. Montevideo and Buenos Aires that there are very few merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence. The Bank of Mauo and Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depository for their savings.

The sum deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks, artisans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lottery, and other frivolities.

The Bank of Mauo and Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and will open a Savings Bank at No. 103 Calle de Cangallo, from Nine a.m. till Three p.m. on Week Days, and on Sundays and Holidays from Ten a.m. to Twelve m., for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interest will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Mauo and Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Mauo and Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Aires and its neighbourhood.

Buenos Aires, September 10, 1903.

P. P. Mauo and Co. WILLIAM LESLIE

CONDITIONS.

First—The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty-five Dollars currency Silver Dollar upwards.

Second—The interest allowed is six per cent. (6 p.c.) per annum, which is liquidated over six months.

Third—The depositor can at any time retire the whole or part of the money deposited.

Fourth—Once the money deposited exceeds twenty-five thousand dollars currency, or one thousand dollars silver, the depositor, if he wishes, can open an account current, according to the rules established by the bank.

Fifth—In case the depositor loses his pass book, it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.

WESPERIDINA
BITTER ESTOMACAL
DE CORTEZA DE NARANJA AMARCA
Fabricado por H. S. BAGLEY

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.
My fears and suspicions, as mentioned in the 2nd edition of my Prospectus of Hesperidina, have been realized.

SPURIOUS IMITATIONS OF HESPERIDINA

have appeared in this city and Montevideo, manufactured by liquor-vendors, and it is sufficient to taste those beverages which fill some of our auction-marts, to judge of the difference between my bitter and this spurious Hesperidina which is wholly destitute of the tonic qualities that constitute the chief medicinal element of my well-known Hesperidina. What do imitators care whether their imitations have this or that wholesome or deleterious substance, so long as people drink them? Their grand point is to sell, and as the genuine article is in great and increasing demand they seize on it for a fraudulent purpose. They try to imitate it in appearance as far as possible and get an unscrupulous lithographer to aid their designs by copying the label of the Hesperidina: their business is then complete.

The mixture of the spurious "Hesperidina" is after this manner: aquaducts, sugar, essences and some unwholesome drugs, all these articles being of the cheapest and commonest kind, in order to have a ready sale at low prices to the fools who buy. "Everything they say, can be disposed of at the auction-marts," and it matters little to them if the poor people who drink such stuff be soon laid up on a bed of sickness.

Fortunately, I am not afraid that people will try more than once such beverages, and in reality my Hesperidina gains credit by such imitations, for only the best articles are imitated. But, for the public welfare, I must protest against such attempts, and bring before the tribunals the daring imitators and their accomplices. Pending their punishment, the public must be on its guard, and see that the genuine article is known by the following marks:—

- 1st. All bottles must have labels like the above heading with my name and signature at the foot.
- 2nd. They must be sold at some of the respectable Hesperidina agencies, as mentioned in the list published in the city journals.
- 3rd. The price cannot be under $300 per dozen, or $30 a bottle, as anything cheaper must be a spurious imitation.
- 4th. The genuine article has never been sold, and never will be sold, at the auction-marts.
